

Tree House Books is committed to growing and sustaining a community of readers, writers, and thinkers in Philadelphia. Founded in 2005, our vision is that every child has access to books and every opportunity to pursue their dreams.

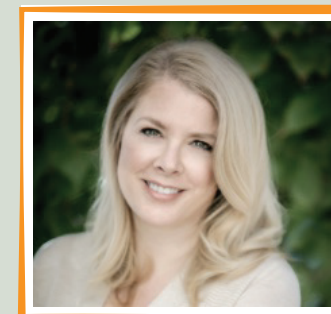

About Us

We are a Giving Library and Literacy Center in North Philadelphia with a dual purpose: we provide free books to the community, and a Literacy Programming Continuum of Out of School Time (OST) instruction that promotes a lifelong love of reading and writing in children from their earliest moments, through high school, and beyond. Our Giving Library is a true community center as well as a free bookstore. In addition, we have reimagined the way OST programming can support our children and families; our programs are innovative and data-driven, with a 2:1 student-to-instructor ratio at every level of the Continuum. Finally, understanding that books in the home is the #1 indicator of a child's potential for success, we distribute thousands of Take-Home Libraries - curated bundles of books, with whole family activity packets - to children all over Philadelphia. We enlist the entire community - children, families, students, educational institutions, businesses, and more - to join with us in a spirit of volunteerism and philanthropy, so that we can change lives and have an impact on literacy in Philadelphia.

"I love Tree House Books. I've been coming for four years and it's so fun. My favorite thing I've done at Tree House Books is everything. Everything is my favorite!"

Antwine, age 9:

Hello Friends,

2017 was QUITE a year!

While the world around us was in constant flux, Tree House Books was able to remain a consistent, safe haven for our kids and families, even while experiencing profound transformation. With your support, we were able to grow in every aspect of the organization.

Here are just a few of the highlights from the year:

- We launched Read with Me, an early learning initiative to start little ones on their journey with reading and writing from their earliest moments. We now serve children of all ages, from infancy through high school!
- We increased the number of books we distributed to local kids and families from 11,381 to 67,665, reaching 18,022 children throughout the city!
- We launched Philadelphia Literacy Day, a Tree House Books' led community-wide celebration to honor Philadelphia as a city of readers, writers, and thinkers.
- We now have a 2:1 student-to-teacher ratio in all our literacy programs - personalized instruction for every child!
- We expanded our hours from 15 hours to 45+ hours per week. That's an additional 1,500 hours a year! With open doors throughout the week and a fully staffed Giving Library, we have become a true community center.

Be inspired! YOU helped make this happen!!

While there is still much to be done, we are grateful to all of you for being a part of our community. We hope that you will continue to walk with us -- as a donor, volunteer or community partner -- and help us ensure that every child has access to books and every opportunity to pursue their dreams!

Warm regards,

June M. Bretz
Executive Director

Studies indicate that children who grow up with at least twenty books in their home stay in school, on average, three years longer than children who grow up without books!

"I like Tree House Books because writing makes me feel great. When I read, I read because there are really funny stories and it helps me be calm."

Azzuri, age 9

In 2017, we partnered with the Philadelphia Parks & Rec department to give Take-Home Libraries to over 7,000 kids in summer camps at rec centers across the city!

In 2017 we expanded our Giving Library, from under 15 hours per week, to 45 hours per week. We have welcomed 3562 visitors to the our Giving Library. Of these visitors, 48% have returned!

Our Programs

One of the aspects of Tree House Books that makes us special is that we are a true community center founded, and focused, on literacy and a love of reading and writing. Everything we do is holistic in nature: we work to engage whole families, with a range of programs that address the whole developmental lifespan, and work with the whole child - their life experience, interests, and unique strengths and struggles. We are able to devote this kind of individualized attention because of the 2:1 student-to-instructor ratio we have cultivated at every level of our programming continuum. Our ultimate vision is to connect with new parents and foster relationships that last a lifetime, providing their babies' first Take-Home Libraries, and walk beside them as they grow, giving them books and supportive programs every step of the way.

Thanks to your investment, we have reimagined our program model so that we can achieve this vision!

Read on to discover how our programming has evolved in 2017...

ACCESS TO BOOKS

We launched our Books in Every Home campaign in 2017 in answer to the unacceptable statistic that there is just one age-appropriate book in 300 homes in the city's most underserved neighborhoods. Our goal was simple: to collect and distribute 50,000 books to homes in need throughout the entire city of Philadelphia.

Our total book distribution in 2016 was just over 11,381, so we knew that this goal would be challenging - but the Tree House community rose to the challenge! By working together with local businesses, community organizations, schools, faith-based organizations, and more, we are happy to report that in 2017, we collected and distributed 67,665 books to 18,022 children and their families!

Other ways we distribute books to the Community:

- The Giving Library offers free, or "by donation", books to the entire community. In 2017, we implemented incentive programs to encourage repeat visits; we also expanded hours so that we're now open and fully staffed 10-6 Monday through Friday, and 10-3 on Saturday, with drop-in Homework Help and Tutoring Time every weekday afternoon. These new hours increased our "open door" capacity from 12-15 hours per week to over 45, enabling more families to visit together!
- Words-on-Wheels is one of our most beloved programs. Every summer, volunteers jump on bikes to deliver books directly to the homes of families who sign up. Each family member gets five age-appropriate, relevant books. Through a grant in 2017, we could provide brand new books! This program is particularly special because it deepens our ties to the community and allows us to learn more about the children and families we serve.
- Tree House Visits are whole-class field trips that come to us from all over the city for a taste of Tree House Magic; every child receives a Take-Home Library. By collaborating with the Philadelphia School District and other area schools, we can now provide programs for kids and introduce their families to all we have to offer, regardless of zip code!
- Tree House Branches (mini giving libraries) have been set up in the Gathers, Amos, M.L.King, East Poplar, Shuler, Mann, Dendy, Towey, and Penrose Recreation Centers. More kids with more books! Thank you SO much to The Goldenberg Group, Penn Book Center, Read by 4th, our awesome friends at the Philadelphia Parks & Rec department, and the many volunteers and donors who helped make it happen!

LITERACY PROGRAMS

Our Literacy Programs are specially designed to reach children from their very first moments. We aim to give every child the opportunity to thrive in their growth as a reader, writer, and thinker; early literacy enrichment is crucial to later academic success!

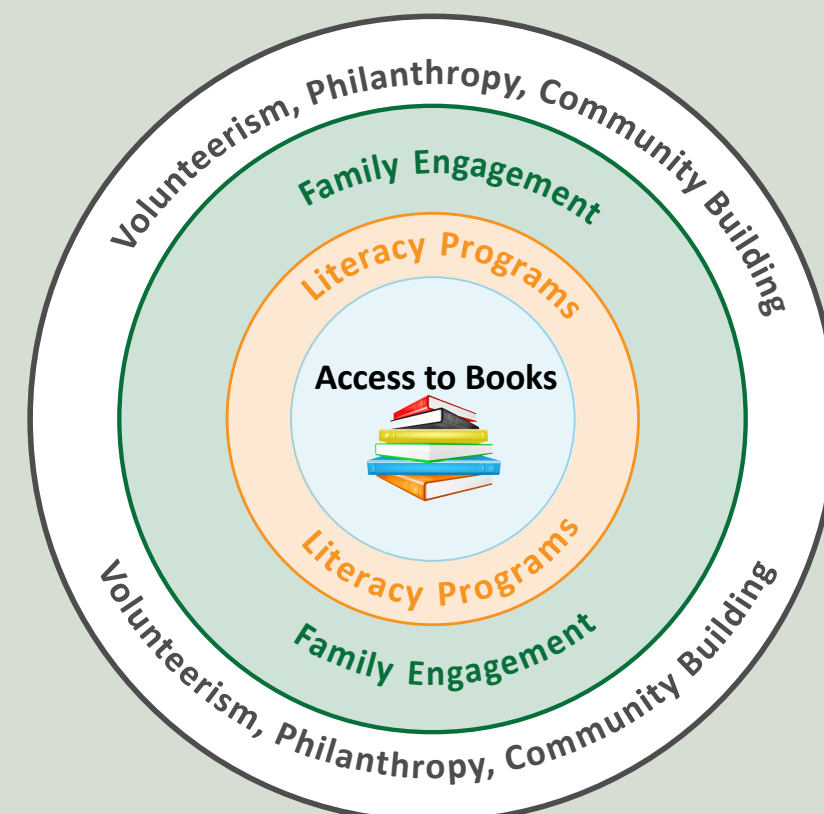

Read with Me (ages 0-3) is focused on getting books to babies! We provide Take-Home Libraries to new caregivers and begin to build relationships that will enable them to grow along with our programs. This program is expected to blossom in 2018 - stay tuned!

Tree House Sprouts (ages 4-6) is a cohort-based group curriculum that offers targeted, Common Core aligned instruction to children entering preschool and kindergarten. Our goal is to ensure that all participants in our Sprouts programming will read on grade level before they exit the program. We will support each child in their endeavors, building competence and confidence within a life of books. Focusing in on this crucial developmental stage, our goal is that every child starts with every opportunity for success from the very beginning!

The Literacy Studio (ages 7-12) complements the experiences kids have in their traditional classrooms, while offering personalized enrichment opportunities. Students self-select their activities, working with volunteer coaches who support and model an invested life with books. We have created an environment where each child can define what literacy personally means to them.

Junior Librarians (ages 12-18) are the people who have grown up through our programs. We provide one-to-one mentoring that encompasses academic, professional, and personal development, offering tools for them to determine their own path to success. At the same time, they volunteer in our Giving Library, where they engage with customers, work with younger children, and participate in a variety of projects that foster a sense of community giving.

Family Engagement is the foundation of every one of our programs. Attendance at our monthly events has skyrocketed, and our families come regularly to the Giving Library to pick out books. In 2018, we will host several family workshops, with topics such as "Raising Readers and Writers" and "Combating Summer Slide" to support families working to bring more reading and writing into their homes.

Our Volunteers

Volunteerism is at the heart of Tree House Books! We have seen first-hand the transformational effect volunteering has on both the volunteers and the children we serve. Kids receive the kind of nurturing, focused attention that enables them to grow into who they are meant to be; our volunteers enjoy spending time with our families and receive eye-opening, defining experiences that can be life changing.

Tree House Books overhauled its Volunteer Management program in 2017. By professionalizing the program to operate like an HR department, increasing efficiency and blurring the lines between paid and unpaid staff, we are better able to leverage the talents and expertise of over 700 volunteers per year. Volunteers are now 90% of our growing workforce, which allows us to cut costs and ensures that your donated dollars are well spent.

In addition, our volunteers receive a wide range of training in education, business practices, and customer service, as well as crucial trauma-informed training. Most importantly, they learn ways they can truly become agents of change!

Volunteers from Temple University have long been fundamental to our programs. Temple students bring a spirit of giving and community to Tree House. Many of our volunteers have gone on to become educators, social workers, philanthropists and community leaders because of their time working at Tree House Books.

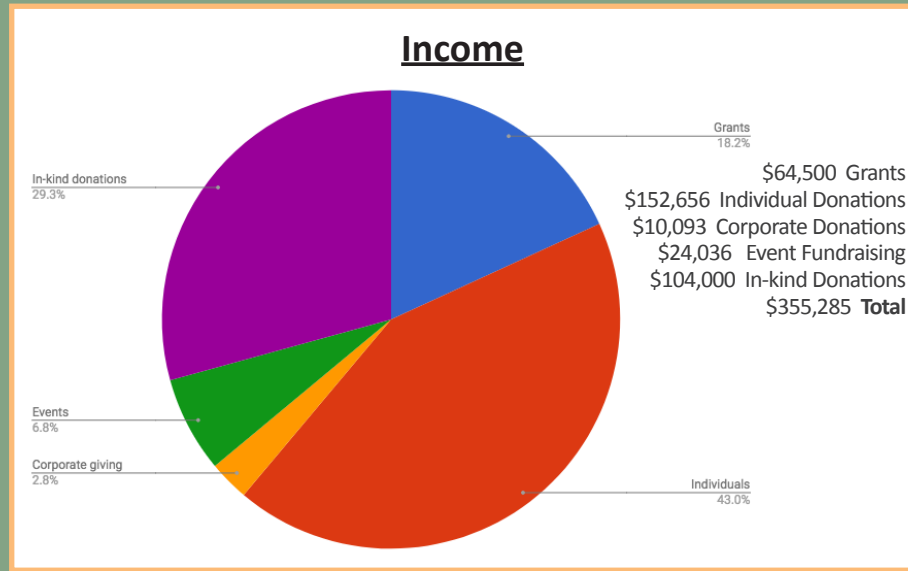

"I like Tree House Books because I love having access to wonderful books to build my classroom library. So many kids in this city wouldn't have anywhere else to get books if not for Tree House."

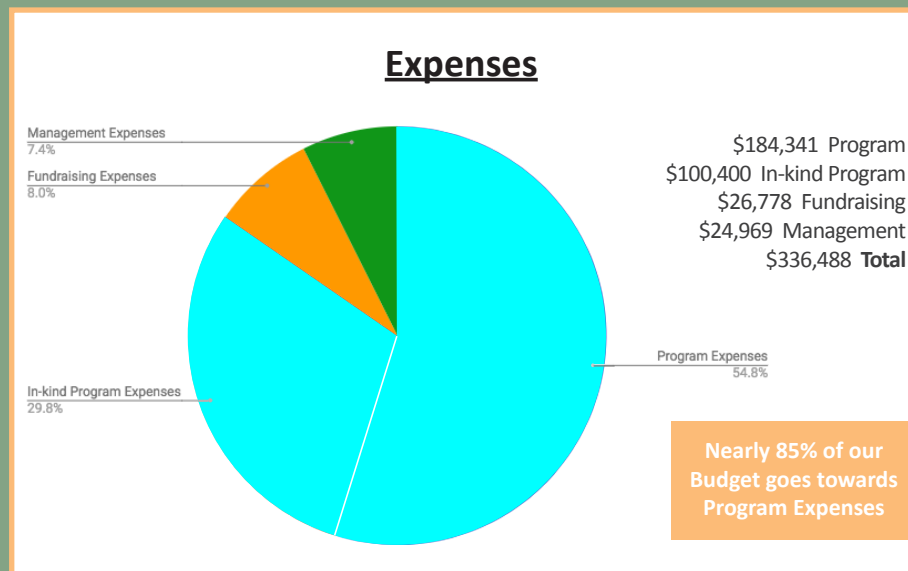

Miss Pepper (Long term volunteer)

Financial Overview

Anna Welsh, social entrepreneur and CEO of Little bags, BIG IMPACT is a true partner of THB! Her growing company donates 15% of proceeds to our programs. Thank you, Anna!

Nearly 85% of our Budget goes towards Program Expenses

Sustaining Partners

We are truly thankful to the Wieseneck Family for their generosity, unwavering support, and investment in our vision. It is through their faith in us, their spirit of volunteerism, and, ultimately, their profound commitment to the children and families of Philadelphia, that enables Tree House Books to continue to do what we've been doing for the past 13

We would also like to especially thank Jon Weiss for the continued donation of our space and generous support. Thanks to you, we have been able to consistently provide a warm, safe haven for the kids and families in our community!

Champions of Literacy

...an evening of inspiration and celebration!

The Phillie Phanatic celebrates kids and reading, while Ronda and Ijshanaya Butler inspire guests with stories of their experiences at Tree House Books.

In addition to being our Annual Fundraiser, Champions of Literacy is an event that galvanizes the community. We bring educators, community leaders, and philanthropists together with people who have experienced the impact Tree House Books has had on their own lives, to share inspiration and create momentum for change in Philadelphia's literacy rates.

Philadelphia Literacy Day

...it's all about FAMILY!

In 2017, Tree House Books launched this event to bring our community together from all corners of the city to celebrate Philadelphia as a city of readers, writers, and thinkers at Smith Memorial Playground and The Kimmel Center.

In 2018, Philadelphia Literacy Day is being presented in partnership with Read by 4th and the United Way of Greater Philadelphia and Southern New Jersey. In addition to raising awareness of all the work being done throughout the city to increase literacy, this special day will offer a host of fun activities - storytimes and book readings, poetry walls, caricature artists, face painting, live music, games, tasty treats and much more - in a carnival-like atmosphere. We'll also be hosting a large-scale free book market and hearing from local authors. Be sure to save the date and bring your family!
